

BJPsych Bulletin

EDITORIAL

- 305 Mental health law across the UK
Tony Zigmond

ORIGINAL PAPERS

- 308 Newspaper depictions of mental and physical health
Marian Chen, Stephen Lawrie
- 314 Implementation of a novel primary care pathway for patients with severe and enduring mental illness
Frank Röhricht, Gopal Krishan Waddon, Paul Binfield, Rhiannon England, Richard Fradgley, Lise Hertel, Paul James, Judith Littlejohns, David Maher, Matthew Oppong
- 320 National survey of training of psychiatrists on advance directives to refuse treatment in bipolar disorder
Richard Morriss, Mohan Mudigonda, Peter Bartlett, Arun Chopra, Steven Jones
- 325 Assessing the second-hand effects of a new no-smoking policy in an acute mental health trust
Benjamin Ian Perry, Katherine Meehan, Ashok Kumar Jainer
- 330 A service evaluation of outcomes in two in-patient recovery units
Rob Macpherson, Claudia Calciu, Chris Foy, Kim Humby, David Lozynskyj, Charles Garton, Hannah Steer, Helen Elliott
- 337 Weekend new patient reviews in psychiatry: evaluation of activity over 3 months
Michael Rutherford, Mark Potter
- 340 New models of care: a liaison psychiatry service for medically unexplained symptoms and frequent attenders in primary care
Janine Bestall, Najma Siddiqi, Suzanne Heywood-Everett, Charlotte Freeman, Paul Carder, Mick James, Brendan Kennedy, Angela Moulson, Allan House

REVIEW ARTICLE

- 345 Systematic review into factors associated with the recruitment crisis in psychiatry in the UK: students', trainees' and consultants' views
Abid Choudry, Saeed Farooq

CURRENT PRACTICE

- 353 Mental Capacity Act (Northern Ireland) 2016
Gerard Lynch, Catherine Taggart, Philip Campbell
- 358 Measuring relational security in forensic mental health services
Verity Chester, Regi T. Alexander, Wendy Morgan

PERSPECTIVES

- 364 Profile: The constant psychiatrist:
an interview with Michael Kopelman
Norman Poole

COLUMNS

- 366 Correspondence
- 368 Review
Handbook of Secure Care

Cover image

In this issue, Chen & Lawrie (pp. 308–313) survey the language used by UK national newspapers when reporting on mental health and physical health stories, using the same methodology they employed for a similar survey 15 years ago. Although some improvements are noted, the authors find that 'mental health in print media remains tainted by themes of violence'.

© Guy Undrill 2017.

BJPsych Bulletin

41 (6)

BJPsych Bull 2017, 41:305-368.

Access the most recent version at DOI:

References

This article cites 0 articles, 0 of which you can access for free at:
<http://pb.rcpsych.org/content/41/6#BIBL>

Reprints/permissions

To obtain reprints or permission to reproduce material from this paper, please write to permissions@rcpsych.ac.uk

You can respond to this article at

</letters/submit/pbrpsych;41/6>

Downloaded from

<http://pb.rcpsych.org/> on December 12, 2017
Published by The Royal College of Psychiatrists

To subscribe to BJPsych Bulletin go to:
<http://pb.rcpsych.org/site/subscriptions/>
